

ML Strategies Publishes Weekly Energy and Environmental Update on January 6, 2013

January 08, 2013 | | By David Leiter

Last week, Congress approved the American Taxpayer Relief Act, which prevented hundreds of billions of dollars in automatic tax increases and budget cuts from kicking in. Among other things, the Act extends existing energy tax incentives over a ten year period, and includes a one-year extension to the production tax credit. For additional timely information on state and federal administrative and legislative activities, please see ML Strategies' weekly Energy and Environmental Update.
